

Workplace Bullying, Discrimination & Harassment Policy

Purpose

The Huon Valley PCYC is committed to providing a safe, flexible, and respectful environment for staff and clients free from all forms of discrimination, bullying and sexual harassment. All Huon Valley PCYC staff are required to treat others with dignity, courtesy, and respect. By effectively implementing our Workplace Bullying, Discrimination and Harassment Policy we will attract and retain talented staff and create a positive environment for staff.

Scope

This policy applies to:

- board members.
- all staff, including managers and supervisors; full-time, part-time, or casual, temporary or permanent staff; job candidates; student placements, apprentices, contractors, sub-contractors and volunteers.
- how the Huon Valley PCYC provides services to clients and how it interacts with other members of the public.
- all aspects of employment, recruitment, and selection; conditions and benefits; training and promotion; task allocation; shifts; hours; leave arrangements; workload; equipment and transport.
- on-site, off-site, or after-hours work; work-related social functions; conferences – wherever and whenever staff may be as a result of their Huon Valley PCYC duties.
- staff treatment of other staff, of clients, and of other members of the public encountered in the course of their Huon Valley PCYC duties.

Rights & Responsibilities

All staff are entitled to:

- recruitment and selection decisions based on merit and not affected by irrelevant personal characteristics.
- work free from discrimination, bullying and sexual harassment.
- the right to raise issues or to make an enquiry or complaint in a reasonable and respectful manner without being victimised.
- reasonable flexibility in working arrangements, especially where needed to accommodate their family responsibilities, disability, religious beliefs, or culture.

All staff must:

- follow the standards of behaviour outlined in this policy.
- avoid gossip and respect the confidentiality of complaint resolution procedures.
- treat everyone with dignity, courtesy, and respect.

All managers and supervisors must also:

- model appropriate standards of behaviour.
- take steps to educate and make staff aware of their obligations under this policy and the law.
- intervene quickly and appropriately when they become aware of inappropriate behaviour.
- act fairly to resolve issues and enforce workplace behavioural standards, making sure relevant parties are heard.
- help staff resolve complaints informally.
- refer formal complaints about breaches of this policy to the appropriate complaint handling officer for investigation in line with the HVPYC Grievances and Dispute Resolution Policy.
- ensure staff who raise an issue or make a complaint are not victimised.
- ensure that recruitment decisions are based on merit and that no discriminatory requests for information are made.
- seriously consider requests for flexible work arrangements.

Unacceptable Workplace Conduct

Discrimination, bullying, and sexual harassment are unacceptable at the Huon Valley PCYC and are unlawful under the following legislation:

- Sex Discrimination Act 1984
- Racial Discrimination Act 1975
- Disability Discrimination Act 1992
- Age Discrimination Act 2004
- Australian Human Rights Commission Act 1986

Staff (including managers) found to have engaged in such conduct might be counselled, warned, or disciplined. Severe or repeated breaches can lead to formal discipline up to and including dismissal.

Discrimination

Discrimination is treating, or proposing to treat, someone unfavourably because of a personal characteristic protected by the law, such as sex, age, race, or disability. Discrimination can occur:

Directly, when a person or group is treated less favourably than another person or group in a similar situation because of a personal characteristic protected by law (see list below).

For example, a worker is harassed and humiliated because of their race or

A worker is refused promotion because they are 'too old'.

Indirectly, when an unreasonable requirement, condition or practice is imposed that has, or is likely to have, the effect of disadvantaging people with a personal characteristic protected by law (see list below).

For example, redundancy is decided based on people who have had a worker's compensation claim rather than on merit.

Protected personal characteristics under Federal discrimination law include:

- a disability, disease, or injury, including work-related injury.
- parental status or status as a carer, for example, because they are responsible for caring for children or other family members.
- race, colour, descent, national origin, or ethnic background.
- age, whether young or old, or because of age in general
- sex
- industrial activity, including being a member of an industrial organisation like a trade union or taking part in industrial activity, or deciding not to join a union
- religion
- pregnancy and breastfeeding
- sexual orientation, intersex status, or gender identity, including gay, lesbian, bisexual, transsexual, transgender, queer and heterosexual.
- marital status, whether married, divorced, unmarried or in a de facto relationship or same sex relationship.
- political opinion
- social origin
- medical record
- an association with someone who has, or is assumed to have, one of these characteristics, such as being the parent of a child with a disability.

It is also against the law to treat someone unfavourably because you assume they have a personal characteristic or may have it at some time in the future.

Bullying

If someone is being bullied because of a personal characteristic protected by equal opportunity law, it is a form of discrimination.

Bullying can take many forms, including jokes, teasing, nicknames, emails, pictures, text messages, social isolation or ignoring people, or unfair work practices.

Under Federal law, this behaviour does not have to be repeated to be discrimination – it may be a one-off event.

Behaviours that may constitute bullying include:

- sarcasm and other forms of demeaning language
- threats, abuse, or shouting.
- coercion
- isolation
- inappropriate blaming
- ganging up
- constant unconstructive criticism
- deliberately withholding information or equipment that a person needs to do their job or access their entitlements.
- unreasonable refusal of requests for leave, training, or other workplace benefits.

Bullying is unacceptable at the Huon Valley PCYC and may also be against occupational health and safety law.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is a specific and serious form of harassment. It is unwelcome sexual behaviour, which could be expected to make a person feel offended, humiliated, or intimidated. Sexual harassment can be physical, spoken or written. It can include:

- comments about a person's private life or the way they look.
- sexually suggestive behaviour, such as leering or staring.
- brushing up against someone, touching, fondling, or hugging
- sexually suggestive comments or jokes
- displaying offensive screen savers, photos, calendars, or objects
- repeated unwanted requests to go out.
- requests for sex
- sexually explicit posts on social networking sites
- insults or taunts of a sexual nature
- intrusive questions or statements about a person's private life
- sending sexually explicit emails or text messages
- inappropriate advances on social networking sites
- accessing sexually explicit internet sites
- behaviour that may also be considered to be an offence under criminal law, such as physical assault, indecent exposure, sexual assault, stalking or obscene communications.

Just because someone does not object to inappropriate behaviour in the workplace at the time, it does not mean that they are consenting to the behaviour.

Sexual harassment is covered in the workplace when it happens at work, at work-related events, between people sharing the same workplace, or between colleagues outside of work.

All staff and volunteers have the same rights and responsibilities in relation to sexual harassment.

A single incident is enough to constitute sexual harassment – it doesn't have to be repeated. All incidents of sexual harassment – no matter how large or small or who is involved – require employers and managers to respond quickly and appropriately.

The Huon Valley PCYC recognises that comments and behaviour that do not offend one person can offend another. This policy requires all staff and volunteers to respect other people's limits.

Victimisation

Victimisation is subjecting or threatening to subject someone to a detriment because they have asserted their rights under equal opportunity law, made a complaint, helped someone else make a complaint, or refused to do something because it would be discrimination, sexual harassment, or victimisation. Victimisation is against the law.

It is also victimisation to threaten someone (such as a witness) who may be involved in investigating an equal opportunity concern or complaint.

Victimisation is a very serious breach of this policy and is likely (depending on the severity and circumstances) to result in formal discipline against the perpetrator.

The Huon Valley PCYC has a zero-tolerance approach to victimisation.

Gossip

It is unacceptable for staff at the Huon Valley PCYC to talk with other staff members, clients, or suppliers about any complaint of discrimination or harassment.

Breaching the confidentiality of a formal complaint investigation or inappropriately disclosing personal information obtained in a professional role (for example, as a manager) is a serious breach of this policy and may lead to formal discipline.

More Information

The Huon Valley PCYC strongly encourages any staff member who believes they have been discriminated against, bullied, sexually harassed, or victimised to take appropriate action by contacting their manager. All complaints will be handled in accordance with the Huon Valley PCYC Grievances & Dispute Resolution Policy.

Should the person who is the subject of the complaint be the employee's manager, the employee should notify another manager, or another member of the organisation at an appropriate level, such as a committee member.

Staff who do not feel safe or confident to take such action may seek assistance from an external agency for advice and support or action their behalf.

Staff requiring more support are encouraged to contact the Huon Valley PCYC's employee assistance program on (12345). Employee assistance program counselling is confidential, and nothing discussed with a counsellor will be communicated back to the Huon Valley PCYC. Employee assistance program counselling is available free to Huon Valley PCYC staff regardless of whether the issue is related to a workplace problem or some other issue for the staff member.
